SWA provided landscape architectural services for the Pudong Gubei Gardens residential community. The landscape concept for Pudong Gubei Gardens focuses on the desire to create an urban respite, consisting of lush greenery, intimate outdoor spaces, and passive recreation for relaxation and exercise.

A strong central axis is an organizing tool for arranging active programs and large community-oriented events. Along the axis, major vertical circulation corridors connect the pedestrian access from the garage at B1 level to the open space above. Large light wells integrated with unique landscape features such as a water wall and flowering trellises provide a glimpse of nature at the B1/B2 levels. The gardens located within the building blocks have more passive gardens as well as parks for morning exercises, children's playgrounds, and walking trails.
