The landscape concepts for the Ministry of Education present three different approaches to creating a beautiful setting for the project while addressing the scale, context, and design intent of the building architecture. Using basic elements of trees, geometric forms, and water, the schemes provide shelter from the hot, dry environment and help to convey the important civic intent of this educational center. Each scheme addresses issues of sustainability through the careful use of water, the capture and reuse of storm water runoff, and the use of local materials and regional design traditions.
