

University of Texas at Austin Aquatic Center

UT Aquatic Center is a combination architectural renovation and new construction project including a natatorium, originally built in the 1930s, and dorms adjacent to the site. Having begun as a student-driven initiative for a recreational pool on campus, the University included in the program three pools and a cafeteria with outdoor service and lounge furniture. SWA's design for the outdoor area included two infinity-edge pools, a lap pool, stone and brick paving, two trellis structures and fountain elements for the pools.
