

Tanhai New Town

This new town is located northwest of Taipei at the mouth of the Tansui River between mountain ranges and the coastline. The guidelines for the competition-winning project cover the urban design concepts, landscape concepts, signage, materials, structures, handicap accessibility, and architectural design. The community consists of residential areas and the town center which is designed to incorporate elements of the traditional Chinese coastal settlement with a wall on the outer edge and a circular building mass inside surrounding the administrative center. The multilevel town center plaza is the site for shopping, entertainment, administration, work and living.
